Holiday Greetings from the National Board

Justen Smith, National ESP President

The holiday season is here. During this time of year it provides us time to give thanks, spend time with family and friends, and ponder on the year behind us and look forward to the year ahead. During this time of year I've had the opportunity to ponder on the year behind me. I am truly honored to serve on the National Board and to have gotten to know so many of you this past year. I have also pondered on the difficulties Extension has faced during 2011. Being part of the Extension profession has its difficulties recently. Budget cuts have been widespread and have made it more difficult for us to perform the responsibilities to the public we serve. With this difficulty I have seen Extension professionals work even harder amidst these difficulties. All of you have truly “stepped up” to the challenge. I commend all of you for working through these difficult times and you have all served as examples for me.

I think sometimes we take Extension for granted. After all, Extension has been around in the U.S. for over 100 years. As I write this article I am working on a USAID Agricultural Development Project in Iraq, working to build Extension and train Extension specialists in this country. Sometimes we take things for granted like 4-H clubs in each of our counties, unbiased, research-based information simply a phone call away, experiment stations providing us with the latest breakthroughs, and world class universities behind us and at our disposal. These are things that we have available for ESP's National Marketing Committee is Here to Serve You!

Jeff Myers, National 2nd Vice President and Chair of Marketing Committee

Your ESP Marketing Committee is here to serve you! Our purpose is to advise the National ESP Board on strategies for marketing ESP to potential members and to promote the ESP organization and image. If you have any ideas for our committee, please share them with one of our members.

You can check out our 2012 Plan of Work by going to the National ESP website. Highlights of our plan include promoting last year's development of 'Best Practices in Marketing,' encouraging participation in ESP's Facebook page, development of more member testimonial videos and continuing to update marketing items. More detailed plans can be found on the website.

If there are additional marketing strategies that you feel would be valuable in promoting the ESP brand we would love to hear from you! Our committee includes Committee Chair and ESP 2nd National Vice President, Jeff Myers; Elaine Bailey, Maryland; Kathleen Jamison, Virginia; Debbie Temple, Kentucky; Al Kulczewski, Illinois; Doug Jardine, Kansas; Karen Bruns, Ohio; Joey Peutz, Idaho; and Marilyn Ming, Nevada.

Additional Help Needed!

Doug Jardine, KS, Marketing Committee Member

We are still looking for additional members to serve on Galaxy Planning Sub Committees. The positions that remain open for ESP members include: Operations Committee, Finance & Exhibits Committee and Recognitions and Awards Committee. These positions will provide an excellent opportunity to be involved in the Galaxy Conference planning. This opportunity only comes along every five years and it is an excellent opportunity to work with colleagues from our sister organizations.

For additional information contact the National ESP Office at espoffice@espnational.org.

Calling All Facebook Users!

Doug Jardine, KS, Marketing Committee Member

For Epsilon Sigma Phi members who are Facebook users, National Epsilon Sigma Phi now has its own Facebook page. To “Like” us, you can go directly to the page at: http://www.facebook.com/pages/Epsilon-Sigma-Phi-National-Extension-Fraternity/114135848695374. The purpose of the site is multiple. It will serve as another outlet for providing timely information and reminders on national ESP activities. It can serve as a networking point for ESP members from across the nation to share or gather programming ideas, and it can serve as a place to post cool pictures, share successes or maybe occasionally to vent a frustration. If your local chapter has a Facebook site, please be sure to link it to the national site.

us every day but things the people of Iraq do not and want as much as anything else. An operating Extension System will be one of the greatest assets to the re-building of this war torn country. They have a long way to go, but as I see 4-H clubs start to sprout up across the country and the farmers of Iraq having their own specialists teach them in improved agricultural technology such as greenhouses, livestock feedlot systems, and fruit production, I see hope. We are truly blessed to have Extension and the Land Grant system in the U.S. As a new year approaches and the economy in the U.S. continues to struggle, Extension will also bring hope to the citizens of the U.S. like it has for the past 100 years. What Extension has to offer is as viable today as it always has been, if not more during these difficult times. ESP is the organization of the Extension professional and like Extension itself is as viable today as it has been since its inception in 1927. For that reason I look forward to the year ahead and serving all of you and being part of the ESP family. Thank you for all you do in your communities and for all your service to the ESP organization. May your holiday season be full of cheer and may the New Year bring blessings and good fortune.

Richard R. Angus Scholarship Recipient Robbie McKinnon Reports on National Conference

Thanks to the kindness of Epsilon Sigma Phi in awarding me the Richard R. Angus Scholarship, I was able to attend the ESP National Conference in Syracuse. As with all things Extension, the best part for me was the opportunity to meet new people. People living and working in the areas I visited influenced me in so many ways whether they were working in the grocery stores, at the Canadian border crossing or in the restaurants. I was especially influenced by those who attended the national meeting.

The Arkansas delegation had the privilege of sharing the dinner table at the Recognition Banquet with the Distinguished Service Ruby Award winner, Dr. Edward Smith, and his wife, Elaine. It didn’t take long to see how personable this Texas couple was and how easy it was to laugh out loud as we passed Arkansas-Texas stories which were similar in nature much because of our shared border. I will admit that neither had ever heard of an opossum running over their graves.

Dr. Smith has truly done much for Extension. To speak with him and Elaine through dinner, I could see the “real people” and could tell that he was certainly a fit for Extension because he truly was interested in people, strived to understand their needs, and sincerely wanted to help them grow and develop. I encourage you to read his biography in the conference program if you have one.

Dr. Edward G. Smith, Director of Texas AgriLife Extension Service, is the epitome of the prestigious Ruby Award. I was honored to meet them during the national meeting and I can say that he and Elaine are friends of our Arkansas delegation.

Are You Interested in Having a Great Experience?

Bob Ohlensehlen, National Executive Director

Over the years I have had the privilege of working with many outstanding Extension professionals. I was privileged to serve a term as Western Region Vice President and then to serve in the officer rotation that included being the National Epsilon Sigma Phi President. Of course currently I am serving as the National Executive Director where I am again affiliated with an additional group of outstanding Extension professionals who serve as officers in their organization. We will be electing a new National 2nd Vice President from the Southern Region who will rotate through the president offices over the next four years.

We are again in the timeframe where we will be electing a new group of regional vice presidents who will serve a two-year term on the Epsilon Sigma Phi Board. In the current rotation the Northeast Region Vice President will also serve as the Chair of the Global Relations Committee; the Southern Region Vice President will also serve as the Chair of the Resource Development and Management Committee; the North Central Region Vice President will serve as the Chair of the Scholarship, Grants and Recognition Committee; and the Western Region Vice President will serve as the Chair of the Public Issues Committee.

In all of the years of my involvement I, have heard the officers say time and again, “This is one of the best experiences of my career!” I certainly would agree.

In the past the elections for regional vice presidents were held at the JCEP meetings in February and the applications were due January 1st. At this year’s National Council Meeting in Syracuse the decision was made to move the elections for regional vice presidents to the regional meetings held at the ESP National Conference in Mobile. The applications for regional vice presidents and for the National 2nd Vice President all are due on July 1st.

All of our members have proven track records in the Extension profession, which is the main requirement to serve as an officer. You are all leaders in your communities - why not spend a little time sharing your talents at the national level? The growth in your leadership skills while serving on the National ESP Board will certainly benefit your programming efforts back home.

The application process to be considered is quite simple. The forms to be considered for an office can be found under the Applications/Reports Tab and then the Officer Application Tab on the http://espnational.org website. The applicant will complete a simple application and obtain a recommendation from his/her chapter president and state Extension Director. The forms for the president and director are also found at the same site.

If you are elected to one of these offices, I can promise you too will say, “This was one of the best things I did in my career!”

Chapter Relations Committee Focuses on Chapters and Leadership

Jeff Myers, National 2nd Vice President and Chair of Marketing Committee

The Chapter Relations Committee focuses on strengthening and enhancing chapters and leadership within the chapters. The Committee is comprised of the ESP 2nd National Vice President and the four Regional Vice Presidents.

The first opportunity to provide training to support the development of chapter and member leadership happens at the JCEP Leadership Conference in San Antonio, February 7 - 9, 2012. Last year many members reflected that the most valuable part of the conference was the chapter sharing during the ESP portion of the meeting. We hope that each chapter’s leadership or representative will plan to attend. Your Chapter Relations Committee has planned the ESP portion. We will take time to review all aspects of the organization and its function. You will have the chance to become familiar with many of your national officers. Chapter sharing will focus on two main areas, the first being membership and marketing success; the second area will be asking what preparations your chapter may be planning for the 2014 Smith Lever Anniversary.

We also heard your concerns from last year about effectively utilizing the full time provided. Therefore, the last morning will provide an opportunity for Regional Meetings which will be a time for discussing upcoming leadership opportunities for the region, future national conference planning, and a time to plan the direction for upcoming regional leadership conference calls.

With Justen Smith’s focus on the strength of each chapter this year, this year’s JCEP Leadership Conference will provide a great launching point! See you there!

2011 Administrator/Leader Scholarship Recipient Karma Metzgar Reports on National Conference

Scott Peters, Associate Professor of Educational Studies, Cornell University, spoke about Extension reconsidered and telling the story of Cooperative Extension. In an educational setting we often focus on what was learned; for example, a young woman learning to cook rice at a training. At the follow-up session, the young woman returned with rice, plus the pride of having learned a skill that betters herself and her community. He encouraged us to tell our story better as we near the centennial of the Smith-Lever Act of 1914.

He relayed his search for great stories as he prepares a documentary about Cooperative Extension. He said we need to do more oral histories or interviews to learn about this long-term relationship learners have had with Extension. “We need to get back to long-term, engaged learning so we have long term relationships,” he went onto challenge the conference participants. “Short term learning misses this community engagement and does not garner the long-term stories that are talked about.”

I thought for sure at the end of his presentation we would see his documentary…it is still in progress as he searches for the stories about how we grow people and how in ideal Extension work, science and art meet in practice.

In Missouri, we have been working on telling the story using public value language. Public value is defined as the benefit of the program to those who did not participate in the program. I think this can strengthen the story as well.

The 2011 ESP National Conference was a wonderful experience and one of the better conferences I have attended. This year I was a presenter and next year I will attend as President of our Alpha Tau/Missouri Chapter.
